Armer fled after the boy died, and a posse is in pursuit of him.

MR. EARL PALMER NOW PRESIDENT

Of the Biggest Lumber Association in the World.

Paducah Man's Election at Cincinnati Yesterday Was by Acclamation.

DELEGATES BACK TOMORROW

Mr. Earl Palmer, of Ferguson-Palmer & Co., of Paducah, was yesterday elected president of the National Hardwood Lumber association by acclamation at the annual meeting held in Cincinnati.

The election of Mr. Palmer is very complimentary to him and a distinction for Paducah, the association being one of great prominence and importance with a membership in every important lumber center in this country and all the foreign countries. The president's office will be in Paducah during Mr. Palmer's incumbency.

The association was organized seven years ago with thirteen members and today has a membership of over five hundred, with members in London, Liverpool, Amsterdam and all the foreign lumber centers. That it is an important organization is evidenced by the fact that its rules and regulations for the inspection of lumber are recognized and accepted as the standard of the world over and are recognized by the United States government.

The members of the association in Paducah are the McKinnis Veneer and Package Co., and Ferguson-Palmer & Co., Mr. Earl Palmer, Mr. A. J. Decker and Mr. Robert Robertson were in attendance at the meeting. Mr. Decker returning last night and the other gentlemen will return Sunday.

WEEKS' NEWS IN BUSINESS WORLD

Clearings this week, $819,364.
Same week last year, 667,797.

General trade conditions over the country are improving and local wholesalers feel the reaction. Business is very fair with collections good.

Retail trade is very good. The carnival interfered some, it is true, but general reports are of satisfactory business.

Building trades are well employed. A number of new buildings are being erected and a good deal of improvement being done.

The Paducah Water Company is making a good many improvements now, and has had so much work on hand that it has been unable to make a number of extensions ordered by the council. The company is doing as much work as it can find men to do, and expect to have all the extensions made in a short time.

Mr. H. E. Hall, formerly manager of the branch store of the Leigh Fruit Company, has arranged to open a commission house on North Second street in the building formerly occupied by the Leigh Company, and expects to be ready for business Wednesday next.

MARRY TUESDAY

PROF. WM. DEAL AND MRS.
ANNA BERGER TO WED.

Prof. William Deal, the band leader, and Mrs. Anna Berger, the pianist, will Tuesday evening be married at Wallace park by Rev. Bonquin, the German Evangelical minister.

Prof. Deal came here from Louisville several years ago to play at Wallace park theater and later secured the musical contract at the Kentucky. Mrs. Berger has been pianist in his orchestra. They will reside at Wallace park, where Prof. Deal will this summer lead the orchestra.

Mrs. Joe Ezell, of Cairo, is attending the carnival.

BRIGHT AND FAIR DAWNS CLOSING DAY

Last Night Was the Banner Crowd—10,000 Present

Street Fair for Next Year Already Talked of By Association.

IMMENSE CROWD FOR TONIGHT

Although this year's carnival is not yet quite over plans for next year's are already talked of. The indications are now that next year Paducah will have a free street fair.

"We have had several carnivals," stated a member of the executive committee today, "and we have concluded that the free street fair is the thing to get the money and bring the visitors to the city. Of course we take into consideration the attendance of thousands of home people at the grounds to 'get in the push,' but the ten cents paid at the gate does not count as much as the percentage of shows at a free street fair. Some of the people go to the shows once, and they go to the grounds every night thereafter but stay out of the shows. The patronage of the shows is largely where the money comes in."

It is probable that the carnival company will this year clear in the neighborhood of $3,000. Last year, with four days of rain, the free street fair netted the association $2800.

Last night was the banner night of the week; and it is estimated that fully 10,000 people were inside the grounds. All these were not paid admissions, many having passed and hundreds slipping over the fence. But they were there.

Tonight marks the close of festivities and the promise is for a hot finish, as hundreds will go out to have a good time. The executive committee desires it said that every show will run as usual tonight, and not a thing will be moved until after midnight. This is in the contract with the carnival company, and the public is assured a pleasant evening.

The country store will be the center of attraction this evening. The drawing for the fine $75 brass bedstead, the $22 trunk and the suit of clothing will take place, and there are in addition many other prizes in the country store. They will all go tonight, and those who want bargains are directed to this feature of the carnival.

This afternoon all the children in the city are being admitted to the carnival grounds free, as a number of them did not get to go on Tuesday, Children's Day.

Last night some scoundrel cut one of the guy ropes of the high diver's outfit and had it not been discovered when it was, the performer would have been killed and doubtless many people injured by the falling of the heavy 100 foot ladder. As a result the high dive could not be made, but will be ready today as usual.

The carnival people are delighted with their success in Paducah. They were very much discouraged by the weather the first day of the carnival, but since then the patronage has been sufficient to make up for it. The attendance last Tuesday afternoon is said to have been the largest afternoon attendance the carnival company has had this year.

Last night the apiclers, confetti men and concessionists, were worked until late, the visitors not leaving until long after midnight.

For tonight, the last night of the carnival, several new features will be introduced. Ricardo, King of Animal trainers, will introduce his new feature act which he has been rehearsing for the past week. This alone is one of the best acts ever put on in any class of shows, circuses or carnivals. The animal show has proved one of the best drawing shows in the carnival and the repertoire of acts is the largest of any similar show on the circuit.

The hippodrome is also one of the best attractions in the entire aggregation and the audience is expected to be large.

MAY SPRINKLE THE STREETS WITH OIL

Board of Public Works Has the Plan Under Advisement.

The Cost is $50 a Block and it Lasts
For Many Weeks and Saves Repairs.

BOARD MAY FAVOR IT

The board of public works has decided that there is more economy in street sprinkling than in street repaving. If the streets are sprinkled during the summer, they will need very little repairs. The board is now preparing to get figures not only on sprinkling some of the principal streets with water, but with oil as well. The use of oil for street sprinkling is a recent experiment, but it is said to offer to cities the solution of a perplexing problem, and put every city in a fair way to save its gravel streets.

Secretary S. A. Fowler of the board of public works, is in receipt of a letter from Lexington, Ky., which has prompted the board to immediately investigate the advisability of sprinkling the streets of Paducah with oil, after they are repaired with the roller.

At present Lexington has a contract to sprinkle 105 blocks of streets and two miles of country roads with oil. The sprinkling requires 15 barrels of oil and six tons of sand for a block that is 600 feet long and 20 feet wide. The oil costs $1.20 a barrel and the sand $1.20 a ton, making a block of sprinkling $35 a block, and it lasts for many weeks, sometimes through out a season. The process is very simple. The oil is sprinkled on the street, a thin layer of sand is spread over it, and it is rolled with a light roller. The oil and sand cost about $23, and the other $10 is for hauling and labor. The oil not only prevents dust and preserves the street, but in addition is a disinfectant and a deodorizer, and kills all germs and prevents the breeding of mosquitoes in the vicinity.

Captain Fowler is very enthusiastic over the prospect and thinks it is a fair way to save thousands of dollars. The plan is only used extensively in Lexington and Louisville, but is highly recommended by the State horticultural association. The upper part of the street is used in the process to save roads and prevent dust and remarkable success. Of road out of Lexington, Ky., is at the Lexington pike, one of the Fayette county.

It is likely that as a result of the report submitted the board seems certain that it will give the sprinkling son, known as the "oil" orator, is satisfaction in the fact that never before have the people of Paducah been treated to such elegant entertainment as is put up by Johnson and people standing in amazement at the description he undertakes so successfully. His work is the means of the big door receipts of this show.

Tonight at 7 o'clock the three bands, Deen's, Deal's and the carnival band, will consolidate and make the entire line of march playing together. There will be something like 50 musicians in the band, and it will be a musical treat.

Paducah defeated the Henderson team yesterday afternoon at Wallace by a score of 8 to 4. The game Paducah's from the second inning it was clearly demonstrated that it was himself again.

Paducah is fast getting into shape and real hot weather comes, will be the fans what Cotton State pitching looks like. He has a pitching delivery but manages to his batters and yesterday struck six. He allowed only three hits not a run the Henderson boys was earned, all coming in on a ball.

Paducah team was full of gin-and the efforts made were made in where they amounted to little.
Brady's support been perfect, he had have pitched a shutoff game.
Smithers, Henderson's twirler, easily found at all times and Paducah batted him all over the field. batting of Land, Virgils and Long features of the game. Gillespie before the pitcher four times, reserved two bases on balls and made sacrifice hits. His sacrifice hits easier base running will put him in the batting average.

STOMACH SHRUNK

Blood Wine Brings It Back to Full Size and Health.

A recent hospital case showed that the stomach of a confirmed dyspeptic had shrunk to a third of its former size. Its walls were wrinkled and leathery.

Is your stomach like that? Does an over-full feeling as soon as you have eaten moderately, oppress you?
Then your stomach must be shrunk.

The upper picture shows how your stomach would be if it were healthy and sound, instead of shriveled and disabled.

Miss Mattie Phelan, 82 Jackson street, Lawrence, Mass., says:
"No one knows how miserable I felt before I took Blood Wine. I would wake up in the morning feeling tired, my bowels were never regular, and I suffered intensely from indigestion, and was subject to that over-full feeling after eating. If people would take Blood Wine for indigestion they would save a great deal in doctors' bills."

Recommended and For Sale By W. B. McPHERSON.

The rule in regard to coaching is plain and clear, also are the penalties attached. This season the rule allows two men on the coaching lines instead of one. It states that he shall stay in the coaches' box which is marked off in accordance with the regulations governing the laying out of the field.
He must confine his remarks to the base runner only and generally behave himself, if he does not he may be sent to the bench or off the field.

There is also another point in coaching that is not provided for by the rules and that is when a player is on third before two men are down and the coacher at that base runs toward the home plate on an infield hit, drawing the throw to the plate the man on third is declared out under the rules.

The new rule that has caused the most argument generally are the new definitions of a balk.

Any motion of the arm, shoulder, hip or body, the pitcher habitually makes in his method of delivery without immediately delivering the ball to the batter, constitutes a balk.

There is one more word I wish to add. There is a deplorable amount of rumping games from the grand stand and bleachers. It would be well to remember in a close decision that a umpire is generally capable and at least 40 feet closer than his audience.

Umpires are not infallible; they are only men and are as liable to have their off days as any of the players, and his work being more difficult, as he has to decide 54 pitches besides balls and strikes, foul balls and all the base running and he certainly should receive the consideration of the audience.

If these few rules are read and adopted by the players as well as by the baseball fans, it will create better ball players and less kicking on the ball grounds and it will give better satisfaction to the audience in general.

Catcher McKenna had a bad mit yesterday and every ball that would strike his mit would go down in the wadding. He was catching at a disadvantage but did well.

The grand stand will be completed tomorrow as far as the seating part is concerned. The roof remains to be built.

Tomorrow's batteries will be Freeman and Land for Paducah, Knibbs

A POSITIVE NECESSITY.

Having to lay upon my bed for fourteen days from a severely bruised leg I only found relief when I used a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. I can cheerfully recommend it as the best medicine for bruises ever sent to the afflicted. It has now become a positive necessity upon myself. D.

FATAL MISTAKE MADE BY ENGINEER

Former Paducah Man Killed in Missouri Yesterday.

Engineer Marion Keith Meets Death in a Wreck Near Piedmont.

SEVERAL BADLY HURT

Engineer Marion Keith, formerly running out of Paducah on the Illinois Central, and one of the best known and most popular engineers on the division, was killed in a wreck on the Iron Mountain at Piedmont, Mo., yesterday. Last night his friends here were notified.

Yesterday's Globe Democrat gives the following account of the wreck:

A head-on collision between northbound Iron Mountain passenger train No. 8 and southbound freight train No. 97, between Clearwater and Carter's switch, three miles south of Piedmont, resulted in the death of one man, M. Keith, engineer of the freight train. Four persons were severely injured and three others slightly.

The fault of the wreck seems to lie with the dead engineer and the conductor of the freight train, who had orders to leave the Piedmont yards after the passenger train left Piedmont. Instead of obeying this order, or thinking the passenger had come, the train pulled out.

The baggage car was turned completely over and landed right side up in McKenzie creek.

All the officials of the Missouri division of the road were at the scene of the disaster supervising the clearing of the track. A gang of more than a hundred men worked without eating for 9 hours, in order to let passing trains by.

The central part of the wreck where the engines came together, was locked together and packed so solidly that the combined strength of two of the Iron Mountain's largest engines could not budge them.

Both trains were running at full speed and met at a sharp curve on a high embankment. Both engine crews jumped as soon as they saw the danger and escaped with injuries, except Keith, who was buried beneath several feet of wreckage and was not rescued until five hours later. All hope of finding the corpse had been abandoned and search had stopped for more than an hour, when a farmer happened to run his hand under a side of a car and felt a foot. The body was rescued immediately.

The Iron Mountain lost heavily in the wreck. Both engines were almost totally destroyed, being crosswise on the track. The mail car was thrown over the engine and totally destroyed.
Four cars of beer were wrecked and barrels and bottles were strewn for hundreds of feet on both sides of the track.

Dead: M. Keith, aged 28 years, of Memphis, Tenn., engineer on passenger train.

Injured: James Greer, 26, single, 916 Lafayette avenue, St. Louis, fireman on passenger train; left leg, ankle and knee severely injured; not serious. Leonard Griswold, 20, news agent, 416 South 16th street, St.
Louis; left leg fractured and side badly hurt; not serious.

Hiram Waters, 46, Bismark, Mo., rib on left side fractured and head out; not serious. Nel Garrett, negro, Pullman porter, 2004 Stoddard street; right eye badly cut and right side hurt. Edward O. Hall, 29, De Soto, Mo., engineer on passenger train; left leg injured and right knee cut. Charles O. Norby, 25, Little Rock, Ark.; fireman on freight train; left eye bruised and out and head bruised. William Hall, Benton, conductor on passenger; injuries to head and face; slight.

The remains of Engineer Keith were taken to his home in Newbern, Tenn., for burial. He has a wife and two children there. Engineer Keith had been an engineer for five years, and until a year ago ran into Paducah on the Illinois Central. Lately he had been running out of Little Rock, Ark., on the Iron Mountain. He was a member of the local brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and a delegation from here will attend his funeral.

Mrs. Taylor Glendennen and daughters, Myra and Miriam, of Cairo are guests of Mrs. M. D. Nelson.

BEAUTY TRIUMPHS.

Beauty is woman's greatest charm. The world adores beautiful women. A pretty woman dreads maternity for fear of losing this power. What can be done to perpetuate the race and keep women beautiful?
There is a balm used by cultured and uncultured women in the crisis. Husbands should investigate this remedy in order to reassure their wives as to the ease with which children can be born and beauty of form and figure retained.

Mother's Friend

is the name by which this preparation is known. It diminishes the pain allied to motherhood. Used throughout pregnancy it relieves morning sickness, cures sore breasts, makes elastic all tendons called upon to hold the expanding burden.
Muscles soften and relax under its influence and the patient anticipates favorably the issue, in the comfort thus bestowed.
Mother's Friend is a liniment for external application. It is gently rubbed over the parts so severely taxed, and being absorbed lubricates all the muscles.
Druggists sell it for $1 per bottle. You

Seven Years—Five Days.

522 Savier Street, PORTLAND, ORE., June 3, 1903.
I suffered for nearly seven years with female weakness, caused by falling of the womb.
My head ached until I was unable to attend to my duties, had pains in the small of the back and pelvic organs until at times I went nearly wild. I used one kind of a medicine after another, but none did me the least bit of good until I used Wine of Cardui. When I began using it I was so weak that I could hardly walk, but within five days my strength began to return, the pains decreased and I was able to sleep.
I used nineteen bottles before I was entirely cured, but I am today as strong and well as anyone could desire to be and most grateful to you for your good medicine.
Helen Peterson
WORTHY CHAPLAIN, INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TEMPLARS.

WINE OF CARDUI

Mrs. Peterson suffered bearing down pains and blinding headaches for seven long years. Wine of Cardui helped her in five days.

During all these years Wine of Cardui was curing hundreds of thousands of other women of these same bearing down pains and freeing them from those same maddening headaches. It was curing the worst menstrual irregularities. It was giving blessed health to thousands of sufferers all around Mrs. Peterson. But she continued to try other remedies with no relief. It took seven long years of these bearing down pains and maddening headaches to bring Mrs. Peterson to try Wine of Cardui. Then Wine of Cardui cured her. The benefit began in five days.
You are suffering like Mrs. Peterson suffered. You are neglecting Wine of Cardui like she neglected it; and just as surely as she was cured you can be cured by Wine of Cardui. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

FATE

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart And speak in different tongues, and have no thought Each of the other's being, and no heed Yet these our unknown sons to us—known hands
Shall cross; escaping wreck, defying death,
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bend each wandering step into this end, That one day out of darkness they shall meet
And read life's message in each other's eyes.
And two shall walk some narrow way of life So closely side by side that should one turn Ever so little space to left or right They needs must start and acknowledged face to face; Yet these, with groping hands that never clasp, With wistful eyes that never meet, and lips Calling in vain on ears that never hear, Shall wander all their weary days unknown,
And die unsatisfied
And this is Fate

Written at Random.

Captain Saunders Fowler, of the board of public works, is having great success this year with his strawberries. In McPherson's window he has four boxes he raised on his place near the city, which can be beaten by none brought to the local market. It required less than twenty berries to fill one of the quart boxes and the large, luscious fruit has won for him many compliments over his successful efforts at berry raising.

"It is remarkable how many people slip in the carnival," declared one of the executive committee today. "They climb over the fences and tear off palings persistently, in spite of everything we can do. Every morning we have to put a carpenter to work to repair the fences where the boys—and even men—have broken them. Fully 1,000 people, I am convinced, got in the grounds this way last night and many of them were men. We don't expect much else from the boys, for we have all been boys ourselves, but we get a little sore when we see men climbing over, and if we could catch some of them I expect they would feel a little sore, too, and it wouldn't take them as long to get out as it did to get in."

One of the baseball pitchers now in the city had a great deal of fun the other day down at one of the tents where you get three throws for a nickel at a lot of cow bells arranged in a row behind cushioned holes. You get a quarter for three straight, or ringing the bell three times in succession, or a cigar for each time you ring it.

"Give me nine balls" said the baseball man as he plucked down 15 cents. The balls were handed out and he began plugging away. Every time he threw, the bell clanked angrily and threatened to break loose and escape. He didn't miss a throw. All nine went straight to the bull's eye, and when the last was fired through the aperture against the overworked bell, he calmly held out his hand for the 75 cents.

When it was paid over he spun out a quarter and said, "Give me nine more, mister."

"Not on your life" said the man. "You can't buy any more here, sonny. You've had enough."

"Here, here, come across, my good man. Cough up those balls or get off the street" said the ball player. "Hurry up with them. That's what you are out here for."

The man was a wise man, however, and when he saw anyone ring the bell nine times in succession he knew there was something doing and it was time to call a halt, and he did. The pitcher finally smiled and good humoredly walked off with his easy money.

A street fakir can work off most any kind of a swindle on an unsuspecting public without ever being called down. It is very seldom that one gets the worst of an argument. He usually has about him a stock of ready wit about as large and as good as the goods he handles, and it enables him by a sharp retort to get the illiterate people about him going his way, and it is very seldom he is compelled to go out of business by exposure from someone in the audience. It happened in Paducah the other day, however, that one was put to the bad by a farmer from Graves county.

A glib stranger was in a buggy near one of the busiest intersections selling a little of everything. Among his wares was a belt of some description that, judging from his graphic, glowing description must be a wonder—and it cost only a dollar. The man talked and told some of his funny stories and got off a few jokes, and the time was ripe for the sale.

"Now I am going to make you all a present of this $5 belt—for one dollar, men. For one dollar. One dollar for this belt, and it is only for the purpose of introducing it. Now who will be the first one—"

"Hold on, gentlemen," spoke up a tall man who seemed to be from the country. "Don't any of ye buy none of them things. They're swindles. I bought one down at Mayfield the other day, an' I'm darn sorry I done it."

The vender looked as if he was ready to fall out of the buggy, but he hastily attempted to recover his equanimity by saying: "Oh, don't pay any attention to him. He's a hog-house. He ain't got a dollar to his name."

Some of the spectators began to titter, but the old farmer fired up and shouted: "Haint got a dollar? Humph, I got more than ye."

"Why," boasted the fakir, "I can

"Can ye? Then do it or shut up" replied the farmer as he slowly snaked a shot sack out of his pocket, unwound it, and lifted out a roll as big as his fist. Besides, he had all kinds of other money that made the eyes of the crowd bulge out. The farmer then stalked off and it wasn't long until the fakir also pulled up stakes and departed.

PROTECTION BENEFITS ALL.

The Democrats are trying to make the farmer believe that he is a much abused man and needs great consideration at the hands of the political parties of the country, and of course it is pointed out to him that the Democratic party is his salvation. What the farmer needs, however, is somebody to point out to him how well off he is. If he had to live in a city and work day after day as thousands of laborers do, and never know for certain whether he would have a roof over his head the next day, he would doubtless realize that others have more pressing needs than he.
The farmer is all right. He works and works hard, but so do workmen in the cities. In bad weather and certain seasons he gets a good rest. The laborer in the city does not. If he does his wages stop, and when his wages stop, how is he to pay rent, and buy food and clothing? The farmer usually owns his home and raises his food. He sometimes complains because wheat, corn, cattle or something else is not selling high, but he is fortunate to have a surplus to sell at all.

The man in the city usually has to spend the fruits of his toil for food, rent and clothing. He has nothing to sell but his labor. If he has anything to lay aside he is a fortunate man.
The farmer, as a rule, makes more than enough for the cost of his clothing, taxes, rents, and other expenses, and he doesn't have to work as hard as the man in town, because he often has long seasons of rest. When the products of his labor are high, it may mean hardship and anxiety to his fellowman in town, because the increase in the price of the workingman's product may not justify a corresponding increase in wages, that will enable him to pay the additional cost of living. Thus, while the farmer is rejecting over high prices, his city cousin may be keenly feeling the effects of it.

For instance, suppose a man works in a factory that turns out clothing.
Suppose he makes barely enough to live on, and food suddenly goes up.
This benefits the farmer, but unless the clothing he makes can be sold at a corresponding advance sufficient to justify an increase in his wages, he suffers from the advance in the cost of his food. Often competition would prevent his employer from advancing the price of the clothing, and he consequently could not raise wages.
The farmer would not complain at the advance in the things he sells, but he would certainly complain if he came to town to buy a suit of clothing and found it higher than usual.

The Republican principle of protection is designed to protect the American workman in just such emergencies. If our markets were thrown open to the world through Democratic free trade, everything would have to be sold cheap to meet the competition of cheap foreign labor. The manufacturer who sold the clothing made by the city laborer, instead of advancing the price of his clothing, would have to reduce it in order to sell it at all, and to do this he would have to cut wages instead of increase them. What would the workman do? He couldn't buy as much food as formerly, for he wouldn't have the money. This to the extent it would prevail all over the country, would ruin the market with unsold foodstuffs, prices would fall, and the farmer wouldn't make as much as he would the other way.

The Republican protective tariff is designed to help all alike, and it does. It enables millions of city laborers to receive fair wages, much of which are spent for what the farmer raises. When the workman becomes unable to buy, the farmer will be unable to sell, hence each is dependent largely on the other. They work together, in a way, and should both be willing to help the other.
With free trade neither could be prosperous. The working man would be unable to make a living for his family, and the farmer would have to sell cheap to sell at all. A man should easily see the justice and advantage of the tariff, and if he does he will do what a majority of people in America have been doing for many years—vote the Republican ticket.

The lot of the workingman is hard enough as it is, due largely to an over-supply of labor, the introduction of machinery and other things over which a political party has no control, but how much worse it might be, and would be if the theory of Democratic free trade could be enforced!

The 25,000 people of Paducah want pure meat and milk, and we have an inspector who is paid to see that they get it. Thus far the inspector has done his duty, and has done it in a firm and fearless manner, and it is to be hoped that he will not fall down now. Complaint is made of the un-sanitary condition of the cold storage.

If it is unfit to keep food in, he should order it closed. He has as much right to prevent any meat being placed on public sale after it has been kept in an unsanitary place as he has to order a piece of spoiled meat removed from the market. Referring the condition of the cold storage to the general council will not meet with public favor. The people know all about the general council and the delay and incompetency that mark its every act.
Let the inspector do his work and steer clear of the general council. If he ever gets the cold storage question before it, there it will hang up indefinitely and he will probably be unable to get a decision for weeks and months, and in the meantime the people must buy and eat meat kept in an alleged unhealthful place.

The board of public works has been quick to attempt something that the Sun has advocated and urged for several years—to save the streets and improve the health of the city by sprinkling the streets. "It would be the greatest stroke of economy the city ever made, if street sprinkling on a large plan were adopted in Paducah," said a member of the board today.
The mills of the gods grind slowly, but with a few good men like those on the board of public works to break up the soft snags of the grafters in Paducah, we shall make rapid strides in the right direction.

Hereafter all Democrats who desire to become candidates for the presidential nomination must apply to the Courier-Journal for examination as to sanity. It is very important that we have only sane men to run for the office, and very necessary that he possess the Courier-Journal's certificate of sanity before he announces.

LONG ILLNESS

Ended by the Death Today of Mr. Gus Bailey.

Was a Popular Man, and Had Lived in Paducah 20 Years.

Mr. Gus Bailey died at 7 o'clock this morning at the family residence 723 North Third street, of consumption. Mr. Bailey had been ill for a year but had been confined to his home only two months.

He was 38 years of age and was born in Marshall county. He came to Paducah about 20 years ago and has lived here ever since. He was connected with the E. B. Harbour department store, for a long while, and was at the time of his death employed by Mr. Eli Guthrie's dry goods establishment.

He was married in this city 10 years ago to Miss Cammie Tate. She and one child survive him. He also left two brothers, Mr. Ira Bailey of this city and Mr. George Bailey of Henton, and one sister, Mrs. M. J.
Howland, of the county.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock and the remains will be taken to Marshall county for burial in the Bethlehem cemetery.

Mr. Bailey was a popular man, and leaves many friends to regret his death.

DR. REDDICK BACK

THE INJURY HE RECEIVED AT LEXINGTON WAS NOT
SERIOUS.

Dr. J. T. Reddick returned this morning from attending the meeting of the Kentucky State Medical society at Lexington. The wound he received in the head from a stone hurled by college boys in a fight on the streets of Lexington, was a slight one and did not prevent his attending any of the sessions of the convention.

Dr. Reddick says his surprise was complete to receive a blow that resulted in almost unconsciousness. He gladly crossed the street with some friends. The stone came from the rear and penetrated through a felt hat with a heavy leather band, and cut a considerable gash in the back of the head.
Had not the hat broken the force of the blow the injury might have been serious.

Dr. Reddick was given the honor of introducing the new president, F.
H. Clark, of Lexington, to the convention, yesterday, after his election.

Government Gets Monopoly.
After Jan. 1, 1908, the German government will prohibit the use of yellow and white phosphorus in the manufacture of matches. It is believed that because of the workmen handling phosphorus becomes hereditary. The government's report "on a safe and harmless process of match manufacture" practically turns matchmaking into a government monopoly after the foregoing date.

Chancellor Twin City Lodge, No. 63, Knights of Pythias, also Past Chief Patriarch, Ridgefield, Minn., No. 22, writes from 1021 University Ave., St. Paul, Minn.: "Peruna has my hearty endorsement.
There is no medicine I know of which can compare with it. I contracted a severe cold several years ago, which from neglect developed into urinary trouble, and threatened Bright's disease.
As one of my friends was cured of Bright's disease through the use of Peru-na I thought I would try it also, and used it faithfully for three and one-half months, when my health was perfect once more. I have never had any trouble since, and therefore think it is but just to give it unlimited praise."—O. Fred Lindstrom.
Catastrophic inflammation of the mucous lining of the kidneys, also called "Bright's disease," may be either acute or chronic. The acute form produces symptoms of such prominence that the serious nature of the disease is at once suspected, but the chronic variety may come on so gradually and insidiously that its presence is not suspected until after it has fastened itself thoroughly upon its victim.

tom Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once at the very root of

GRAND SALE OF LOTS.

The Northway Realty and Improvement company has about 70 lots on 11th and 12th streets, in Paducah, Ky., which it will offer for PUBLIC SALE most reasonable terms, in JUNE NEXT, unless sold before that time. Those lots are situated in Paducah, Ky., and lie between Rotgering's farm and the city.

The streets have been lately gravelled. The lots have beautiful shade trees on them, and lie high above the streets.

An ordinance has been adopted to extend 12th street on beyond this property to Rowlandtown, and the street car company will extend its line from Triumbe street on down 12th street by this property to Rowlandtown.

This property is certainly most attractive and desirable, and will soon be built up. There are no lots in the suburbs of Paducah more desirable for homes. The adjacent property is being rapidly improved, many houses having been erected recently. For particulars apply to W. D. Greer, General Manager, Paducah, Ky., March 15, 1904.

EXPOSURE.

To cold draughts of air, to keen and cutting winds, sudden changes of temperature, scanty clothing, undue exposure of the throat and neck after public speaking and singing, bring on coughs and colds. Ballard's Horehound Syrup is the best cure. Mrs. A. Harr, Houston, Texas, writes, Jan. 31, 1902: "One bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup cured me of a very bad cough. It is very pleasant to take." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Du Bois, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

BOTH INSPECTORS

ARE STILL AT WORK UNDER DIRECTION OF HEALTH
AUTHORITIES.

Meas. Anderson and Padgett, sanitary inspectors, are still making their daily inspections. There has yet been no clash between the city and the health authorities over discharging one of these inspectors and putting in his place Mr. Wm. Wheeler, keeper of the pest house.

The council adopted the recommendation to the mayor and ordered it done, but the board of aldermen has not acted on it, and it is understood will refuse to concur in the mayor's recommendation.

The Board of Health claims the city by rights has nothing to do with appointing sanitary officers, and that if it had, it should have suggested the employment of one officer only when the question was up before the board, instead of waiting until two were elected.

DOWN ON WABASH

THIS IS HOW THEY SHOWED APPRECIATION OF THE MUSE.

Crawfordsville, Ind., May 21.—When James B. Elmore, bard of Alabama, wrote his last novel, "Twenty-five years in Jackville," the aspirations he cast upon that community across the resentment of its citizens. Wednesday Elmore visited the town to peddle the objectionable work.

As the bard stepped from the post-office he was greeted by a fusillade of rotten eggs and a chorus of derisive shouts. His nose was broken by a duck egg hurled from a distance of 15 feet. Elmore fell in his tracks. At the edge of town he fell into an ambush and was treated to a second derisive baptism, finally escaping, however, in a sorry plight.

HERBINE.

Will overcome indigestion and dyspepsia; regulate the bowels and cure liver and kidney complaints. It is the best blood purifier and invigorator in the world. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and should be used by a sufferer from disease, you will use it if you are wise.

R. N. Andrews, Editor and Mgr. Cocoon and Rockledge News, Cocoon, Fla., writes: "I have used your herbine in my family, and find it a most excellent medicine. Its effects upon myself have been a marked benefit. I recommend it unhesitatingly." 50c. Sold by Du Bois, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

A STRIKER KILLED.

Callao, Per., May 21.—When the striking dock employees were going toward the dock today the police interfered and attempted to disperse them.

The police arrested one of the strikers and his comrades made no effort to rescue him. A fight ensued, in which the police fired over fifty shots, which were answered by a shower of stones. One of the strikers was killed and seven were wounded. The police arrested the members of the board of directors of the strikers' union.

The people of Callao have become alarmed, and business houses are closed. The streets are being constantly patrolled by cavalry.

GROWING ACIES AND PAINS.

Mrs. Josie Sumner, Bremond, Texas, writes, April 15, 1902: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I have used it on my little girl for growing pains and aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frost bitten feet, with good success. It is the best liniment I ever used." 25c, 50c and $1. Sold by Du Bois, Kolb & Co., Paducah, Ky.

DANIELS HANGED.

Raleigh, N. C., May 21.—Alfred Daniels, a negro the murderer of P. G. Simmons, father of the United States Senator Simmons of this state was hanged for his crime here today. Daniels said nothing on the scaffold, excepting that he had been forgiven for his crime.

KILLS MANY HOGS

A Number of Farmers in Lower McCracken Lose Scores.

Mr. H. C. Allison, of Paducah, Loses 118 Out of a Drove of 120 Fine Porks.

SOME SAY IT IS CHOLERA

Many farmers in the lower part of this county are alarmed over the appearance of a disease which is killing their hogs rapidly. Some call it cholera, but the nature of the malady does not appear to be certain.

Mr. H. C. Allison, the well known tobaccoist of Paducah, who has a fine farm in the lower part of the county, went down yesterday and found that out of 120 fine hogs he had, 118 had died of the disease.
Some of the bodies were cut open, but the cause of death was not fully established.

It is reported that many other hogs are dying in that section, but just how many have been carried off by the ravages of the disease is not known.

The lungs of the hogs cut open appeared to have been affected by the disease. Mr. Allison's loss alone will amount to about $1,000.

Filigree Ball
By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,
Author of "The Mystery of Agatha Webb," "Lost Man's Lane," Etc.
Copyright, 1903, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

The slight abrasion at the base of her third finger, which had been looked upon as the result of too rough and speedy a withdrawing of the wedding ring on the evening of her death, was much more likely to have been occasioned by the reopening of some little wound made two weeks before by the file. If Durbin and the rest had taken into account these filigree, they must have come to very much the same conclusion, but either they had overlooked them in their search about the place or, having noted them, regarded them as a clever leading nowhere.

But for me they led the way to a very definite inquiry. Asking to see the rings Mrs. Jeffrey had left behind her on the night she went for the last time to the Moore house, I looked them carefully over and found that none of them showed the least mark of the file. This strengthened my theory, and I proceeded to take my next step with increased confidence. It seemed an easy one, but proved unexpectedly difficult. My desire was to ascertain whether she had worn previous to her marriage any rings which had not been seen on her finger since, and it took me one whole week to establish the fact that she had.

But that fact once learned, the way cleared before me. Allowing my fancy full rein, I pictured to myself her anxious figure standing alone in that ancient and ghostly room flitting off this old ring from her dainty finger. Then I asked myself what she would be likely to do with this ring after dis-engaging it from her hand? Would she keep it? Perhaps. But, if so, why could it not be found? None such had been discovered among her effects.
Or had she thrown it away, and if so, where? The vision of her which I had just seen in my mind's eye came out with a clearness at this, which struck me as providential. I could discern as plainly as if I had been a part of the scene the white old form of the bride bending toward the light which came in sparsely through the half open shutter she had loosened for this task. This was the shutter which had never again been fastened and whose restless blowing to and fro had first led attention to this house and the crime it might otherwise have concealed indefinitely. Had some glimpse of the ring grown growing miller's this window turned her eye and led her to cast away the ring which she had no longer any right to keep? It would be like a woman to yield to such an impulse, and on the strength of the possibility I decided to search this small plot for what it might very reasonably conceal.

Calling together a posse of street urchins, I organized them into a band, with the promise of a good supper all around if one of them brought me the pieces of a broken ring which I had lost in the grass plot of a house where I had been called upon to stay all night. That they might win the supper in the shortest possible time and therefore the owner of this house, who lived opposite, could interfere, I advised them to start at the fence in a long line and, proceeding on their knees, to search, each one, the ground before him to the width of his own body. The fortunate one was to have the privilege of saying what the supper should consist of. To give a plausible excuse for this search a ball was to be tossed up and down the street till it lighted in the Moore house inclosure.

I did not accompany them. Jinny, who has such an innocent air on the street, took my place and promenade up and down the block just to see that Mr. Moore did not make too much trouble. And it was well she did so, for though he was not at home—I had chosen the hour of his afternoon ride—his new manservant was, and he no sooner perceived this crowd of urchins making for the opposite house than he rushed in and would have sent-tered them far and wide in a twinkling if the denure dupes of my little ally had not come into play and distracted his attention so completely as to make him forget the throng of unkempt hoodlums who seemed bound to invade his master's property. She was looking for Mr. Moore's house, she told him. Did he know Mr. Moore and his house, which was somewhere near, not his new, great, big house, where the horrible things took place of which she had read in the papers, but his little old house, which she had heard was soon to be for rent and which she thought would be just the right size for herself and mother. Was that it?
That dear little place all smothered in vines? How lovely! And what would the rent be, did he think, and had it a back yard with garden room enough for her to raise plums and nasturtiums, and so on, and so on, while he stared with delighted eyes and tried to put in a word here and there, and the boys—well, they went through that strip of grass in just ten minutes. My brave little Jinny had just declared with her most regal smile that she would run home and tell her mother all about this sweetest of sweet little places when a shout rose from the other side of the street, and that collection of fifteen or twenty boys scampered away as if mad, shouting in joyous echo of the boy at their head:

"It's to be chicken, heaping plates of ice cream and sponge cake."
By which token she knew that the ring had been found.

When they brought this ring to me I would not have exchanged places with any man on earth. As Jinny herself was curious enough to stroll along about this time, I held it out where we both could see it and draw our conclusions.

It was a plain gold circlet set with a single small ruby. It was cut through and twisted out of shape just as I had anticipated. How could I learn the story of that ring and the possible connection between it and Mr. Jeffrey's professed jealousy of his wife and the disappointing honeymoon which had followed their marriage? That this feeling on his part had antedated the ambassador's ball no one could question, but that it had started as far back as the wedding day was a new idea to me, and one which suggested many possibilities. Could this idea be established, and if so how? But one avenue of inquiry offered itself. The waiter, who had been spirited away so curiously immediately after the wedding, might be able to give me some information on this interesting point. He had been the medium of the messages

The finding of the ring which had passed between her and Mr. Jeffrey just prior to the ceremony; afterward he had been seen talking earnestly to that gentleman and later with her. Certainly it would add to our understanding of the situation to know what reply she had sent to the peremptory demand made upon her at so critical a time—an understanding so desirable that the very prospect of it was almost enough to warrant a journey to Tampa. Yet, say that the results were disappointing, how much time lost and what a sum of money! I felt the need of advice in this crisis, yet hesitated to ask it. My cursed pride and my no less cursed jealousy of Durbin stood very much in my way at this time.

A week had now passed since the inquest, and while Miss Tuttle still remained at liberty it was a circum-scribed liberty which must have been very galling to one of her temperament and habits. She rode and she walked, but she entered no house unattended nor was she allowed any communication with Mr. Jeffrey. Nevertheless she saw him or at least gave him the opportunity of seeing her. Each day at 3 o'clock she rode through K street, and the detective who watched Mr.
Jeffrey's house said that she never passed it without turning her face to the second story window, where he invariably stood. No signs passed between them—indeed they scarcely nodded—but her face as she lifted it to meet his eye showed so marked a resenty and was so altogether beautiful that this same detective had a desire to see if it maintained like characteristics when she was not within reach of her brother-in-law. Accordingly the next day he delegated his place to another and took his stand farther down the street. Alas, it was not the same woman's face he saw, but a far different and sadder one. She wore that look of courage and brave hope only in

Jeffrey saw Miss Tuttle from his window passing Mr. Jeffrey's house. Was it simply an expression of her secret devotion to him, or the signal of some compact which had been entered into between them?

Whatever it was, it touched my heart even in his description of it.
After advising with Jinny, I approached the superintendent, to whom without further reserve I opened my heart.

MALICIOUS AGITATION

The suit brought by the city against the East Tennessee Telephone company will no doubt fully and finally establish the company's right to do business in Paducah. If it does, it will prove a benefit to the company, instead of the intended embarrassment. The motives that manifestly actuated the suit are not commendable, however, whatever the outcome. Such an action, considering the motives behind it, should be beneath the dignity of intelligent, conscientious public officials. It is no more than might be expected, however, when the methods of the present city administration are reviewed.

The fight made against this company is the inevitable penalty of success. The East Tennessee Telephone company has operated in Paducah for many years. It came here when the city was small, and has grown in ten years from a service embracing less than 200 telephones to one at present having 2,000. When it desired to do business in Kentucky and Paducah, it secured a legal right in the manner prescribed by law to do business, and that right probably exists today with the same force and effect it had then. Later the franchise law was passed in Kentucky, but it did not apply, according to subsequent court of appeals decisions, to companies previously doing business under legal grants. At any rate the company has been expanding and growing for several years and has had some hard fights to make, but has usually won them. Its growth in Paducah, even in the face of competition, is ample testimony of the quality of its service. Its rates have evidently been reasonable and satisfactory, or the public wouldn't pay them.

But like other successful corporations, it has its enemies. Like other corporations, it refuses to be held up, and that is only what any good business man may be expected to do. The company pays its taxes, and has always paid a license. It has paid no franchise tax because it has no franchise and claims it doesn't have to. Because it has none, the city recently thought it would be in "gooding" it in some and, in addition, personal and real estate property, and a license of $100 a year, a tax of $1 on each pole in the city. This $1 a pole cannot be a property tax, for the poles are listed and assessed in the $40,000 worth of property on which the company has already paid taxes. It cannot be a license, or ad valorem tax, because this is fixed at $100 a year, and a double license tax is just as illegal as a double property tax. It is only an attempted holding. City officials claim it is for "rent or occupancy of the public streets and highways." This is absurd, as to erect poles is necessary to carry on the business, and the company has a legal right to carry on business. Besides, there is no law that empowers a city to "rent" the streets or sidewalks, or to charge for their occupancy. If a person or concern has a right to use them at all, he has a right to use them without paying "rent."

The company has 1500 poles in Paducah, and to submit to the attempted extortion would mean to pay over in addition to annual taxes and a $100 license, $1500 a year on its poles. Fifteen hundred dollars is not picked up in the street every day, even by a telephone company, and the telephone company incurred the displeasure of city officials by refusing to be robbed. The result is the suit to "oust" it from Paducah and collect $50,000 in profits made by the company. As this $50,000 profit wasn't made off the city, it is presumed the $50,000 is to be kindly collected by the city and prayed among those who have been paying for telephone service for the past several years. Some of the city officials claim the company has not even paid the $100 license or the license on its wagons. It is the city's fault if it hasn't. We have a law which requires all licenses to be paid by a certain time, and a license inspector and others officials are paid to see that it is done. A person, firm or corporation may be fined for every day the license is unpaid. If officials don't enforce the law it is their own fault.

The motives behind this suit, however, are apparent, and deserve the condemnation of all who love fair play. The present mayor has served as such nine years, all told. The East Tennessee Telephone company has been doing business here all that time. If it had no right to, why, as the head of the city government, didn't he take steps to "oust" it before? The president of the board of aldermen was mayor a part of the time the telephone company has been in business here. Why didn't he do something? The president of the council has been in office several years, and several other members of the legislative boards have for several years been holding office. Why didn't they do something before? It is very obvious that either these officials have been asleep for several years, and have sadly neglected their duty, or else there is some reason for bringing this suit other than a desire to have the telephone company called to time for an alleged violation of the law, and that reason is explained above. And furthermore, who authorized this suit? Who gave the necessary order to employ outside lawyers at doubtless great expense, to bring a suit that is certain to be lost by the city, as all other suits are lost? What is the city solicitor for? Why can't he attend to such things without burdening the taxpayers with additional lawyer fees that yield no benefits? Suppose, however, that the city should succeed in this suit and "oust" the East Tennessee Telephone company? What earthly benefit would it be to the public? What would become of the competition that the administration wanted so badly when it decided, after a hot fight over the telephone question, to sell a franchise for another system? Is it not trying now to destroy the very thing it was so eager to get a year or two ago? Isn't it trying now to establish a monopoly by running out competition? What is the object of the suit, the motive behind it, and what possible benefit can it be to any one except the lawyers who will doubtless get rich pickings out of the litigation? The public would like to know these things, as it has some interest in the affair, at least so far as the telephone service, and the cost to the taxpayers of this lawsuit, are concerned.
